Pacific Palisades Residence

Velvet Hammerschmidt Design

Velvet Hammerschmidt Design streamlined the remodel of a 1962 Pacific Palisades house into a comfortable, functional home for a hip young family. The majority of the house was taken down to the studs to accommodate a contemporary open plan which takes advantage of panoramic views of the beach visible through large windows that wrap around the house. A white and brown color scheme with natural bluestone tile floors, gray blue carpet and natural wood ceilings relate perfectly to the beach colors and textures. The palette and materials unify the interior and complement the beach views, emphasizing them as art. The result: a stunning example of contemporary design.
